

SPORTS COMMENTARY ON TONIGHT'S GAME

Well folks this is your friendly sports announcer All Spirits. Tonight I am talking to you from Memorial Auditorium and I will bring you a blow by blow description of tonight's game between the Broken Brown Indians of Bona and the Golden Griffins. But first here is some background facts about the two teams.

THE ORIGIN OF ST. BONA U.

St. Bonaventure originally was an old German mideaval castle which an eccentric millionaire, named Frederick Scous, decided to move to the most desolate and inexcusable portion of the universe, so that it would't be condemned. The place he chose was the wilds of Allegany county. But the poor fellow soon found out he went from the frying pan into the fire. It seemed that no sooner had he set up residence, then a group of Brown indians attacked and captured him and his home. The German was killed and once a year he returns and destroys all the indian's food, except for some pieces of cake. After a few years the U. S. Army with the help of the R.O.T.C., defeated the indians and made the land a reservation for unruly boys and indians.

THE OLEAN ARMORY

A few miles from the reservation was a village of Olean. In it the people were forced to build a fortress to protect the local high school and grammar school girls on weekends. However Bonaventure joined the PH league and the armory was sold to the university. Since then the place has been named the execution chamber and has been the site of all the bona victories. The Armory boast one of the most complete collection of devices ever devised to torture man. Besides the Rack and the Electric chair, they lease themain floor out on sundays for Christian sacrifices to the lions.

Bonnie ballgames are a real treat to the local farmers. Just before the game there is a great deal of fighting over the local pigs. Then the lights go out and the Cake Eating Five plays the Olean Anthem - "Hound Dog Man". When and if the lights go on (if they can find a match) and the visiting team is taken out of chains, the game is ready to start. The referees, Mr. and Mrs. Donovan, bring the approved ball to center court. According to local rules of courtesy, the students are not allowed to touch the visiting team until the second half. Martin usually starts the game with the Franciscan handshake and the ball is put in play. Since the opposing team is not accustomed to handling a well salivated ball, Bona usually builds up an early 2 point lead.

THE PLAYERS

STETH BROTHERS -- A few years ago the two stiff brothers, Rigor and Mortis, paddled upstate from Brooklyn. Noted early in their careers for their inside outside brother act, the stiff's were lured to Bona by the promise of getting all the cake they could eat and so the Showbeats came.

Essentially modest and used to living a simple life, the stiff's arrived at Bona with only one suitcase apiece, the rest of their pressclippings came in a trunk the following week.

Since moving from brooklyn, Big Tom has taken up squaters rights in the three second zone, gleefully awaiting Sam to hack the ball away from the opposition and feed it to him. Sam is very effective at stealing the ball, sometimes taking a piece of the opposition with him; but a surprising number of his passes to Tom are around the rim and out. They must have a future somewhere, but I don't know where.

MARTIN - Whitehead is one of Bona's best players, in ping pong that is. Recently, the National Association of College Basketball Coaches of North America, voted Whitehead the best player of the year (for the opposition that is). Because of his graceful form, like a steam roller, he has been able to keep even the worse player from getting more than 48 points. Last year he won the bench warming award and the year before that the Water Boy Award.

THE GRIFFIN

It is a animal cultivated by Canisius sand which lives under the Golden Dome. It is part lion --- for courage and strength; part Eagle --- for keen eyesight, and part serpent -- symbol of Wisdom

And now folks back to the game. I see that the brown indians are running onto the floor. My mistake folks, they are being run onto the floor; it seems that the government has discovered that they had escaped and they have sent the famous MacKinnon's Raiders after them. The Raiders look great as they charge down on the Indians and the Griffins they are riding seem to enjoy trampling them. It looks as if they've surrendered and now they are in the center of the floor and have started to build a fire and seem to be trying to bake a CAKE on it. Now the referees have broken up the little cooking bee and the teams line up to start the Game. The ball is thrown up and there's the whistle. Whitehead just had a high sticking foul called on him and he said that with all the ice in the Aud, he thought he would play hocky. The referees don't agree and they even made him take the ice skates off. Now it seems that the referees are interested in the Bona Side basket; Oh I see the trouble, they have substituted a larger size hoop, I guess they got tired of missing the regulation size hoop. The teams are back at the starting line and the ball is up and the game is on----
