

Ever want to be on reality TV?

Learn how from two-time 'Survivor' contestant

St. Bonaventure University welcomes Rob Cesternino from CBS' "Survivor: The Amazon" and "Survivor: All-Star" as he explains how research took him to "Survivor" twice and also gives tips on how to get on reality TV.

All are invited to attend Cesternino's presentation at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday, April 6, in the Reilly Center Arena. Admission is free.

Cesternino is a recent graduate of the State University of New York at Oswego, where he spent his senior year working on his senior thesis "the impact of reality television." While reality television was still in its infancy, Cesternino began his study of the genre which eventually led him to become a participant in the CBS series "Survivor: The Amazon."

"With the popularity of reality television shows on the major networks today, St. Bonaventure University is pleased to present Rob Cesternino, a past contestant from the most popular reality show, "Survivor," said Steve Plesac, director of student activities.

Cesternino was able to put his knowledge into practical use as he became recognized as a master strategist. Ultimately, his third-place finish led "Survivor" host Jeff Probst to label him "the smartest player not to win." Cesternino's impact on the game has earned him another invitation to return to "Survivor: All-Star."

Since then, among other things, Cesternino has written a weekly newspaper column for his local paper, made speaking engagements, endorsed Mattel's "Magic 8-ball" (which was his luxury item) and has been writing and performing stand-up comedy.

This program is sponsored by the campus activities board.

New exhibition opening

In opera, the music intensifies the drama, according to costume designer David Roberts, who tries to do the same visually with the costumes he creates for both opera and ballet. A new exhibition, "David Roberts: Costume Designs for Opera," opens at 7 p.m. Tuesday with a free gallery talk by the artist. One of his topics will be the role played by paintings and other art works in the re-creation of historic periods on the stage.

Sketches for "Volpone," "Così fan tutte," "Faust," "La Finta Giardiniera" and "Romeo and Juliet" are included in this exhibition, along with some production photographs and three costumes from "Volpone" and "Così fan tutte."

The gallery talk on Tuesday is free and open to the public, and the exhibitions will be open both before and after the talk.

Local band Navar to open for ‘Spring Weekend’ concert

Local rock band Navar, heard playing locally in Allegany, will now rock the Reilly Center Arena at St. Bonaventure University as it opens for this year’s Spring Weekend concert headliners, Reel Big Fish, at 8 p.m. Thursday, April 28.

“We are honored to play the St. Bonaventure spring concert, mainly because we have all attended this annual SBU tradition as music fans,” said Pat Barry, lead singer. “It makes it even more special for Tim and our manager, Adam, to be a part of this as St. Bonaventure alumni.”

Navar, a self-managed and independent band founded in 2002 in Fillmore, N.Y., has opened for multi-platinum recording artists Third Eye Blind and The Goo Goo Dolls. The band has played nearly 90 shows all over New York state, including Rochester, Buffalo and New York City.

Navar was the dream of lead singer and guitar player Pat Barry. Barry began playing with his brother, Ben, a bass veteran, and the two recorded a 12-song, self-titled debut.

Over the next year, Navar saw band members come and go. Fortunately, Mike “Skippy” Yudichak on guitar and Tim Lindhome on drums soon joined the band to create what is now Navar. Together they created the “Unreleased EP.” EP was never formally released because their popular “Everything’s the Same” single drove them into the studio to record their second full-length album “Your Window.”

Together with producer Marc Hunt and Robby Takac, producer and member of “The Goo Goo Dolls,” Navar entered Chameleon West recording studio, owned by Takac, to create the 15-track album “Your Window.” The album is full of what Navar has become known for — passion.

Navar has also been broadcasted on the nationally syndicated Howard Stern Show and featured on XM Satellite Radio. The band has played many shows in the heart of NYC’s music scene, including such venues as CBGB, Arlene Grocery, The Luna Lounge and The Alphabet Lounge.

Navar can be heard locally on FM Radio 101.5-the Mix in Olean and is in rotation at Bona’s WSBU-FM the Buzz, which has also done two on-air interviews with the band. Articles have been written about Navar in local papers, including the Cuba Patriot and The (Olean) Times Herald.

Be part of the fun at this year's 2005 Spring Weekend!

Be part of the fun at this year's Spring Weekend! When your team isn't competing in the softball tournament, come to the carnival midway where you can play such games as milk can toss, penny pitch and pop-a-pimple — right next to your favorite carnival food (fried dough, sausage sandwiches and caramel apples).

Better yet, get your club, organization or team together to man a game booth Friday, April 29, and Saturday, April 30. The booths — as well as a number of prizes for winners — will be provided. And, better yet, your organization gets to keep a portion of the money your booth brings in.

Game booths will be centrally located on the outdoor basketball courts between the Reilly Center and the Sandra A. and William L. Richter Center and need to be manned from 4-7 p.m. Friday and 11 a.m. to 7 p.m. Saturday. In addition to being close to the cotton candy stand, the game booths will be adjacent to the outdoor stage, which will feature entertainment including the student band Smart 7 (formerly Nullvoid).

For information about running a booth, contact Spencer Peavey, director of new students, at ext. 2051 or speavey@sbu.edu.

Give back by volunteering this summer

Spend 10 weeks this summer working at the Warming House where you will plan and prepare meals, organize repair projects and be challenged by issues of social justice. You will be able to join other students in a communal living situation and share your faith with the Warming House guests and the community.

All summer interns receive a living stipend and housing on campus. For more information and to schedule an interview, contact Sarah A. Nies, University Ministries, ext. 2601 or snies@sbu.edu no later than April 15.
