Dear ones at home

Here I am getting over the ground at a mighty rate You probably rec'd my letter written at Camp Chase. from there we went to Cincinnati and this side of Richmond I never saw men worse treated I beg you to be excused from giving a description but ordinary Hog pens are about as clean I have had pleasant rides however and have passed through some beautiful country and to night I crossed the Ferry at Jeffersonville into Louisville I am feeling well and some what fatigued by the long rides but I will not grumble as I have not had to march it

We are in a very good place here but I hope soon to be in a place where I can get your letters The City of L is considerable of a business town but does not suit me

Please give my love to all and I shall be till I get home again

The one that is far away
Yours &c
Charley
