THE BLUE AND THE GRAY.

By Samuel Elsworth Kiser.

The easiest work I ever done Was chasing Yanks at Bull Run.
I seem to see them going yet; My! How they did up and get.
They made the blue streak getting out That you have often heard about.
We showed them up in that affair;
Was you among the Yankees there?

Yes, I was there, and I admit That meebby I'd be running yit If Mead had not (excuse my smile) Took charge at Gettysburg a while.
Says he 'Let's kind o' stick around Since we've got back on our own ground.
Was you among the Johnnies who, Got mixed up with that streak of blue?

Say, Yank, old friend, when Grant cut loose You boys sure raised the very deuce, It was no disgrace to have to yield With such a captain in the field.

You're right, friend Johnny Reb, you're right, And Moses! how you boys did fight.
Each man a hero, yes, sirree, 'Twas no disgrace to lose with Lee.

Copied at Gettysburg July 3, 1913, by T. O. Kellogg, Goldsboro, N. C., for S. Hoag of Ellicottville, N. Y., from a bulletin board in the Southern camp.

At Gettysburg.

I have heard some unjust criticisms of the Gettysburg anniversary, and for the benefit of those who did not go I will give you a few facts as I saw them.

I went on the special train via the Erie from Salamanca which took the larger part of the veterans from Chautauqua, Cattaraugus, and Allegany counties. There were about 700 on this train and we left Salamanca on the morning of the 30th of June and made good time until we got to Gettysburg Junction, 26 miles from Gettysburg, and from there we were three hours getting in and had to work our way in past 20 trains of empty cars that had unloaded at Gettysburg and must come out before we could get in.

It was a tremendous job that the railroads had tackled, considerable of it on single track roads, but they did it well, and all railway officials and employees were as courteous and Southern prison. He also saw the long to be remembered ceremony—the handclasp of Confederate and Union over the wall at the bloody angle—signifying as nothing else could, the union of North and South.

July 1st 50 years ago was on Wednesday; this year it was on Tuesday.

Steffenhagen-Jacobson,

A very pretty home wedding took place on Wednesday, June 25th, at the home of A. Jacobson and wife of Devereux when their daughter Julia E. was united in the holy bonds of matrimony to L. L. Steffenhagen of Machias. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. T. H. Langdon, pastor of the Christian church of Machias.

To the strains of Lohengrin's wedding march played by Mrs. C. A. Franzen, a sister of the bride, the young couple advanced to the altar. The bride was attended by her sister Miss Amelia Jacobson as bridesmaid while the groom was attended by his brother Charles Steffenhagen as best man.

The bride was very becomingly attired in a dress of white satin and carried a bouquet of bride roses. The principal decorations were the bride's birth flowers (daisies) with a background of ferns and roses, which altogether caused a very pretty effect.

After a wedding trip to Detroit, Mich., the young couple will be home to their many friends at Machias where the groom has prepared a home and has it neatly furnished. The many friends join in wishing them a happy voyage through life.

The guests from out of town were Miss Ethel Chase of Highwood, Mich., Miss Ruth McClellan of West, Mich., Murphy and wife of Machias, C. Franzen and wife of Salamanca, Chas. Jacobson of Salamanca, Miss Bert Murphy of Machias, Chas. Steffenhagen of Salamanca, G. Steffenhagen of Ellicottville, and Mr. Langdon and wife of Machias.

It was a tremendous job that the railroads had tackled, considerable of it on single track roads, but they did it well, and all railway officials and employees were as courteous and obliging as one could ask for.

Upon arriving at the camp at about 10 p. m., we were met by the Boy Scouts as guides, and there was some confusion and a lack of organization and details with regard to assignment to tents which the government had furnished of the Sibley pattern, each holding eight cots. Some were unable to procure blankets the first night, but the mercury was high enough so there was no occasion to find fault about that.

The camp was all laid out in streets according to U. S. regulations, and all streets numbered, also all tents. The cots and blankets were all new. At the end of each row of tents were the mess tents where the cooking was done for each street, and every veteran was provided with a plate, knife, fork and spoon, and a tin cup.

The meals were served promptly on time and no one had to wait to exceed 10 minutes to be waited on.

A line was formed on each street and marched past the cook who served you promptly and civilly as you passed along, and at each meal the menu was changed and the food was well cooked, plenty of it, and good enough for any one, and far better than we ever got during the Civil War.

It was a grand sight to look from the observation tower on the battle line on Cemetery Ridge across the plain towards Seminary Ridge where you could look down on 9000 tents covering nearly 300 acres of land.

The feelings between Johnny Reb and Yank were of the very best, and Johnny Reb will go back to his home and tell his children and his neighbors that the Yanks used them just like a brother, and it will do more to restore good feelings between the North and the South than anything that has happened since the war.

Looking at it from the view of one who had seen three years of hard active service including 20 battles and many skirmishes, to say nothing of over 2000 miles of marching under all conditions, I want to pronounce it the grandest undertaking since the Civil War, and if I had the time I could enter into many reminiscences with the Johnnies.

Once Foes, Now Friends.

S. N. Thomas of Great Valley was one of the veterans who visited Gettysburg, in company with L. S. Rickards, S. Hoag, and J. E. Chase. Mr.
Thomas reports a fine time. He says the Southerners whom he met were good men, courteous and affable to the Northerners. The soldiers were well taken care of, good food and plenty Franzen and wife of Salamanca, Chas.

Jacobson of Salamanca, Miss Bertha Murphy of Machias, Chas. Steffen-hagen of Salamanca, G. Steffenhagen of Ellicottville, and Mr. Langdon and wife of Machias.

Davidson Reunion.

The Davidson reunion was held at Cuba lake, June 28th, in the pavilion.
The friends began to come at 11 o'clock until 12, some in autos and others in carriages until 30 or more arrived. A table was set with pork and beans and other good things, well, I would remark, say nothing about three cans of ice cream. When all were served the young people took to the lake and the older ones got seated around, and many tales were told of old lang sine. Of our number, who met last year we lost two by death Francis James of Chicago, and Mrs.
Mertie Davidson of Delevan, and we gained by birth one, Rita Warner, 4 1/2 lbs.

It was an ideal day and much enjoyed by all. At 4 o'clock they began to depart till all were gone but the writer, who stayed a week and enjoyed free meals with his Cuba friends.

Wonderful Relief by Use of Oxypathor.

Franklinville, N. Y., June 9, 1913.
Mr. Geo. E. Cox, Great Valley, N. Y.

The Oxypathor we purchased of you has done wonders in our family.
I have been a great sufferer for years from gallstones, catarrh of the stomach, kidney trouble, and constipation, bowels never moving without a cathartic.

Have been using the Oxypathor for four months, am feeling fine, gaining every day.

No more trouble with gallstones, kidneys and bowels normal, stomach all right, can eat anything I wish.

Mr Bowen's mother has been troubled for years with asthma, has been using the machine for this, is greatly benefited.

One of my neighbors (Mrs. Henry Brown) had a very bad case of inflammatory rheumatism, was suffering dreadfully; the relief she received from the use of the Oxypathor seemed like magic.

We would not be without the Oxypathor at any price. It is the best "little doctor" we ever had. It does not give any medicine, just uses nature's remedy OXYGEN, and is always ready for use and never gives out, lasting a lifetime, and can be used on any member of the family.
We recommend the Oxypathor.

Yours truly,
Mrs. B. F. Bowen.
