

But it was not done and a touchdown was scored.

Then it was too late. The heavy was sent in but the lead Moor had gained was too great to be come and Fillmore had to be content with a 12-9 defeat.

Each Kennedy and Harry Imhoof away scouting the Ventura-Oxgame or such an error of judgment would have hardly been made, being made, would no doubt have been corrected in time, as the score shows that by putting in the heavy after the first touchdown, the game could have been saved.

Bardsdale Community Supper Held Tuesday

Over 200 persons enjoyed a festive evening on the occasion of the annual Bardsdale community supper, Tuesday evening last in the social hall of the Bardsdale church.

Following a sumptuous repast, the evening listening to an interesting address by Dr. Gould of Saticoy on the subject of "What's the Matter with American Homes?"

Dr. Gould, after a felicitous introduction by John A. Galvin of Fillmore, said that one of the difficulties with American homes of the present day is that there are too many outside interests and commercial pleasures to claim attention from the young people. Also, he thought, the authority of the home is so much divided as between parents and school authorities, that the observance of school authority is a right, not enough authority exercised in the home. Veteran of Civil War Answers Last Roll Call

The fast thinning ranks of those who defended the United States against disunion in the Civil war, grew a little thinner this week when Private Charles Lewis Bookman, long time resident of Fillmore, answered the last roll call. Mr. Bookman, who had been quite frail for some time, had been failing rapidly of late. The end came Monday morning early when he passed quietly to the beyond.

Mr. Bookman was 82 years of age and was a native of New York City. He spent much of his early life in Pennsylvania where he enlisted in the Union army in 1861 and served throughout the Civil war. He was married to Jennie Gardner in Pennsylvania 35 years ago.

Mr. and Mrs. Bookman came to California 13 years ago and settled in Fillmore. They have been continuous residents of this city from that time. The deceased was a member of the G. A. R. and by occupation was a blacksmith. During his long residence here, he was known as a worthy citizen and enjoyed the respect and esteem of all who knew him.

Deceased leaves a widow, Mrs. Jennie Bookman, a son, Thornton Bookman of the Calumet lease, and a grandson, Harold.

Funeral services were held yesterday afternoon at 2 o'clock from French's undertaking parlors, Fillmore, the Rev. W. A. Ogden of the Brethren church officiating.

As a mark of regard for a veteran of a former war, members of the American Legion served as pall bearers. They were Albert Corrio, Reed Elkins, John A. Peres, William Grady, Russell Spitler, Fred Olivier, Ted Zimmerman and Ray Bell.

At the grave the pall bearers became a firing squad and fired a salute, after which Bugler Ray Bell sounded "taps."

Interment was in Bardsdale cemetery.
