

At Home.- Lieut. Byron A. Johnston of the glorious 154th N.Y., is now in our village on a brief visit to his family.- The Lieut. passed through the fiery ordeal at Chancellorsville in gallant style, receiving only a slight wound, and now looks as hale and vigorous as ever. He says the confidence of the soldiers in "Fighting Joe Hooker" is still unabated, and that they are impatient for the order to move once more against the Rebel army under Lee.

Capt. Freeman, May 28, 1863