

ce. prize schooner, laden with cotton, taken from Inlet, arrived at Fortress Monroe on 12th. About 900 Rebel prisoners, taken by Gen. Baker, were sent up the James River on Monday to be exchanged. Gov. Pettus (Rebel) of Mississippi, has issued a proclamation calling on every man capable of bearing arms to take the field. Orders have been issued from the War Department directing all officers and men, included in the recent exchanges, to repair at once to their several commands.

Secretary Stanton will allow no more persons looking for dead in the Army of Potomac, while it remains in its present position. Orders are issued to stop the exportation of mules and cattle. All caught in transit will be seized, appraised, and taken for Government use. Commanders of Departments are directed to be vigilant in preventing exportation of arms and war material.

Gen. Hunter writes to Gov. Andrew in high praise of the colored soldiers now in service at Royal; they are hardy, brave, patient, obedient; with a few intelligent blacks from the North to aid them, they might make a wise and important incursion into the densely populated slave regions.

Gov. Ould, the Rebel Commissioner for exchange of prisoners, came down on the oft-truce boat to Newport News on Monday morning of last week, and reported that 100 Union prisoners were now at Richmond, and that 5,000 more were to be exchanged, and that 5,000 more were to be there in a few days. These were all according to the Rebel Commissioner, after the last battle of Fredericksburg.

Gov. Morton, of Indiana, has asked the Secretary of War to order the confinement of 800 Rebel prisoners now in our hands, that may be held as hostages for the exchange of the 400 Alabamians belonging to the 51st Indiana Regiment, who were paroled with the other troops recently captured, but sent to Richmond, and denuded as renegade Alabamians.

A letter from Newbern says that a large number of the nine-months soldiers have expressed a determination to re-enlist for the war, a month's furlough, provided they can return to this Department, and fight under the old chief, Gen. Foster.

It is said that the Rebel Cavalry in front of Grant's army are constantly changing position, and that Wheeler and Morgan are at Alexandria with 5,000 Cavalry—which is supposed to indicate an attack on Nashville. It is reported that Clement L. Vallandigham has been sentenced by the Court-Martial to a year's banishment to the Dry Tortugas. President, it is said, has commuted the sentence to banishment across the Rebel lines during the war. Rebel papers recently stated that Gen. Grant had been beaten back from Big Black River on the 6th inst. Official dispatches from the War Department of that date, received at Washington, make no allusion to fighting of any kind on that day.

Gen. T. F. Meagher has resigned his command. His letter ascribes his action to the refusal of the Government to allow the Irish to have a furlough for the purpose of recruiting their thinned ranks. About 300 contrabands, with as many more followed Col. Kilpatrick, of Gen. Stone-result of his mischievous teachings, a mob, when he was arrested, set fire to and destroyed some $50,000 worth of property in Dayton where he resides. The Government has tolerated the miserable nuisance long enough, and if it will administer a little judicious hanging in his case, it may serve as a salutary warning to Gov. Seymour and other Copperheads who possess all the meanness, but lack the courage of the Ohio renegade.

THE ROLL OF HONOR.

Death of Adj't Samuel C. Noyes, Jr.

When the intelligence of the recent bloody battle at Chancellorsville first reached us, and our eyes rested upon the appalling list of killed and wounded in the heroic 154th New York, we saw, at the head of the dismal column, the name of Adjutant SAMUEL C. NOYES, JR., among the latter number. Before our paper was issued, however, conflicting reports concerning his fate were in circulation, some asserting that he was dead, and others that he was badly wounded and a prisoner in the hands of the Rebels. Fearing that if we gave credence and currency to the latter report we would give rise to hopes in the hearts of his numerous friends that later intelligence might cruelly dispel, or that if we announced his death we might inflict unnecessary pain, we made no mention whatever of his case, resolving to wait for further and more reliable developments. But a telegram from A. G. RICE, Esq., received on Monday last, removes all doubt, and confirms our most painful apprehensions. Adjutant NOYES is dead—he fell at the post of duty, while bravely cheering and urging on his men. He was a young man of fine abilities and liberal education—of prepossessing appearance and address—a fluent and attractive speaker—a pleasant and genial companion—a warm and steadfast friend—and a kind and devoted husband. Thus, at the early age of 27 years, in the midst of robust health, and with every prospect of a long, useful and happy life, he has passed from earth—a martyr to the sacred cause he loved so well. To his gentle and sorrowing wife, and to all his bereaved and afflicted friends we tender the assurance of our heartfelt sympathy, and earnestly pray that "He who tempers the winds to the shorn lamb" may comfort and console them in this their hour of sorest trial.

Corporal Warren A. Kingsley.

Corporal WARREN A. KINGSLEY, who also fell at Chancellorsville, was a son of NATHAN KINGSLEY, Esq., of this Town. He was an amiable and estimable young man, and a brave and faithful soldier. His loss will be deeply felt by a large circle of relatives and friends.

A "Peace" State Convention!

For the evident purpose of aiding the Rebels, who are looking for dissensions at the North as the most powerful agents for the promotion of their cause, the Copperheads of this State have called a "Peace" State Convention, and have issued the following characteristic appeal:

"We love the Union! We will never willingly relinquish it! Its enemies are our enemies, and the enemies of Human Progress, Civilization, and Self-Government. We are opposed to the separation of these States, and for this reason are opposed to all measures, whether of peace or war, tending to that result. We think that the efforts to sustain the Union by force of arms, in the hands of those who now direct the Government, have proved a failure. Whether this has been designed or not, it is clear that the effect of the measures adopted by the Congress, and the Incompetency, Fanaticism, and Corruption of men in Power, have had this result. "Assuming that the Administration desires to restore the Union, it cannot be accomplished by mere brute force. Nor do we believe that the past justifies a con-

A serious Railroad accident occurred at Salamanca on Tuesday evening last at about 6 o'clock. As the express train on the Atlantic and Great Western Railway, consisting of an engine, one baggage, and two passenger cars, was passing through the bridge just west of that station, the bridge parted in about the center, letting the tender of the engine, baggage-car and one passenger car down to the ground. The baggage car, which was entirely demolished, contained the Baggage-Master, U. S. Express Messenger, U. S. Mail Agent, the News-Boy, besides two or three other employees of the Company. The News-Boy, named GREEN, who, we learn, is from Little Valley, was taken out the ruins dead. The Baggage-Master, OLIVER CORREY, (long a faithful employee of the Road,) was extricated from under the timbers, &c., in an insensible condition, and died in about five hours. The Mail Agent, E. C. TOPLIFF, was similarly taken from the ruins, with one leg broken in two places. His case is encouraging. The Express Messenger, M. A. HEMINGWAY, jumped from the car, and was but slightly bruised. Two or three others were slightly injured.—None of the passengers were seriously hurt. The passenger car which went through the bridge, contained but few passengers. Fortunately the creek, which runs under the bridge, was very low, the water being but about ten inches in depth. Every exertion was made by the Company and the citizens of Salamanca to aid the sufferers. The bridge is being rebuilt, and trains will resume their regular trips.

Mass Convention of the Loyal National League.

We rejoice at this fresh indication of the growing vitality and efficient organization of this movement. It is but a few weeks since the yearning of loyal hearts everywhere for mutual recognition, and unity of action, gave birth to the League—yet already the seed has produced a healthful and vigorous plant, and its roots have extended to all parts of the country. We look upon it and hope for it as the great necessity of this trying hour, when the life of the Nation is boldly assailed from without by Rebels in arms, flushed with many temporary successes, nerved to the gigantic struggle by long-cherished dreams of ambition, by all the whips and goads of pride, and by the vision of the inner face of that great wall of loyalty which, once overleaped, seemed to follow after the transgressor with terrible pictures of life-long ruin, disgrace, shame, political and perhaps physical death; assailed from within by the yet more deadly reptiles of disguised traitors and blatant demagogues, crying "Peace! peace! when there is no peace!"—These slimy creatures talk eloquently of their inalienable rights. They would rather the whole city were burnt to ashes, and all its people driven forth amid the glowing embers to find relief from poverty, pestilence and despair at the hand of death alone, than that their mean, petty rookery, fated to kindle and vanish in one hour more, should be destroyed to stay by the breach the devouring flames.

If these men dared show their loathsome deformity; were God, by a miracle, to open the eyes of all the community to the real and necessary tendency of their counsels, the wrath against them, even among those who now confide in them and follow their guidance, would drive them out from among men. But as yet they carefully conceal their purpose—occasionally even talk of some chimerical, airy resistance to the Rebellion—but all such is spoken at low breath and as if ill at ease, and the bro-
