Without a single doubt, O. J. Houck of Ellicottville, owns the champion layer of heavyweight hen's eggs in this part of the state. In just three days, 24 hours apart, a silver laced Wyandotte yearling hen, heretofore unherald and unsung in the Houck flock, modestly shelled out three eggs that turned in a gross weight of 11 ounces. The largest egg weighed 3% ounces and measured 61/4 inches by 73/4 inches around the short and long way of the shell.

In honor of her feat, the ownr has named his prize layer the 'Bremer' out of deference to he Junker plane the "Bremen." having set new records.

Although expected momentar-ly, as yet Mr. Cold Cash Pyle for for the bird's services and Ir. Houck is doubtful if he ould allow her to turn profess-nal anyway, stating that he elieved "a change in pasture eight cramp her style."

That Community's Oldest Inhabitant.

Following closely after his eightyeighth birthday, the death of Mr. Rickards, on Wednesday morning, April 11th has removed a familiar personaltiy from our vicinity, universally respected by his friends and greatly beloved by his family he will be missed by many whose lives he has touched in greater or lesser degree.

The village of Great Valley where he spent the greater part of his life attested to his character and mode of living by the large numbers at-tending the funeral services at the home and later at the Baptist church where he had been a valued and consistant member for many years, the pastor Rev. J. W. Norris spoke fittingly of the labors now finished here in pain and weakness, to be taken up again in a better land with renewed strength and vigor. Throughout the years he met with characteristic fortitude the various experiences life brought to him full measures of joy and grief were his from youth to old age, home and civic duties were ably performed, thus he won for himself a high place in the esteem of his fellow men for the Patriotic Soldier and the Christian Gentleman he proved himself to be, so, the flag placed at half mast in his honor during the funeral service had ever been honored by him all the years since he enlisted and served beneath it during the Civil War. The detachment of American Legion men acting as American Legion men acting as guard and standing at attention over the flag draped casket bore silent tribute from the Soldier of today to the swiftly passing ranks of the G. A.

Music and flowers surrounded him as he was tenderly borne by six stalwart young men, all grandsons, first to the church, then to the quiet spot beneath the trees which he had chosen for his final rsting place, were after the few last words were said, the soldiers salute given taps sounded "Lights Out" the end of the journey was reached.

Besides his widow he leaves four daughters, Mrs. Mabel Lorch of Ellicottville, Mrs. Maude Gillman of Great Valley, Mrs. Emma Wallace of Alden and Mrs. Grace Reed of Great Valley; one sister, Mrs. Lana Lowe of Delevan; 13 grandchildren and several nieces and nephews
