The Bonadieu 2011, Vol. 79

On April 17, 2011 The St. Bonaventure community was shocked by the sudden loss of one of its beloved long time members. After more than 35 years with the St. Bonaventure family, Dean John G. Watson suffered a stroke and passed away while visiting friends in Pennsylvania.

Watson served in many roles in the St. Bonaventure community. In 1976, after only a year with the university, he was named dean of the School of Business and remained so for the next eight years. He also became the vice president for Academic Affairs in 1981, a role that lasted for thirteen years until 1994.

In his final decade with St. Bonaventure Watson was the color analyst for the men's basketball games. He had always loved playing the game and even led his Detroit University team to the NIT tournament in 1965, an accomplishment that allowed him to play semi-professional basketball in Detroit. Later he went on to coach at Archbishop Walsh High School and be named Big 30 Basketball Coach of the Year in 1986.

Watson was named dean of the School of Business again in 2007, a position he held until his death. He had planned to retire at the end of the year.

Despite his upcoming retirement, Watson intended to stay active within the university. He became involved in the planning and fund-raising for a new School of Business building, and after retirement he planned to continue to dedicate time to the project knowing that it would be a benefit to his Bonaventure family.

Watson was nothing but a joy for the school. He could be found walking around the second floor of Murphy holding conversations with the other faculty members. Students in the School of Business were sure to run into him throughout their careers. And when they did, they could trust that he would always greet them with at least a smile and a hello.

It is because of his dedication to this university, his love for academia and his amazing personality that we dedicate this 2011 edition of the Bonadieu to Dr. Watson. His contributions to this school will never be forgotten.

Dr. Watson, thank you so much for your service. You will be missed.

To the Class of 2011,

It's finally upon us - that chaos they call the "real world." As we cope with all the changes we are about to face, we should remember the ways that Bona's not only prepared us, but refined us and our chaos. Bonaventure has given us an education in more ways than one.

Though Clare College was our favorite topic to rant about, it had its part in making us functional members of society. While we may never again have to recall ancient models of the solar system, perhaps we can hold on to what we learned about other religions from Father Vacco or the appropriate place to put a semicolon in Comp and Crit.

We learned economics and math in unconventional ways. Between five dollar movie tickets, ATM fees and what $11.99 can really buy at Wal-Mart, we made sure that our weekends balanced the work we put in during the week.

The Rick Farina Spring Weekend softball tournament showed us year after year what can come from early mornings and the value of being on a team. Colored shirts may have separated us but the all-encompassing team that is Bonaventure gave us another lesson: work hard, play hard(er).

We learned persistence and drive with every winter. How many mornings did we crawl out of bed to go to class after feet of snow had been dumped on us or inches of water had driven us out of our dorms and into the San Damiano room? How much did we learn about our cars, 4-wheel drive and how to appropriately argue our way out of parking tickets?

Alumni weekends gave us the importance of our Bona family. People come back year after year to meet the students and appreciate our common factor, all while reliving their own chaos. This year we join their ranks, a group of people committed to helping our own.

Most importantly, though, is that Bona family. Never forget the "brothers" and "sisters" who helped you edit your capstone, rolled their eyes at your stupid ideas, helped you procrastinate and and brought you home after a night out (often in the same 24 hours). Always remember those professors who might have acted as your therapist, life planner and Bona "mom" or "dad," all in one fell swoop.

It's fitting that Bona's is a place that no one else can understand. We have all experienced the authentic, bona fide chaos of this university, and we have all left our own mark here. Although we are different in our own ways, we are all Bonnies, connected in our lessons, each other and our truly unique experiences during these past four years.

Best,
The Bonadieu Staff

Commencement Class of 2011

Speakers Encourage Students to Spread Bonaventure Spirit

Every Bonaventure student knows about the Bona Bubble. It surrounds the university, allowing those within to form deep connections and share a special bond. The three speakers at the 2011 Commencement all commented on the unique spirit that each person develops when they become a Bonnie, and how they can spread that positive energy even after graduation.

Former Congressman James Walsh, SBU class of 1970, reminded students to use the Bona's spirit to "Find ways to connect with your community, to make a difference." New York Senator Charles Schumer, who also stopped by to speak to the graduates, encouraged them to apply everything they've learned at Bonaventure toward a job they truly love.

Finally, Katie Sweeney, the student speaker, reminded her fellow classmates that the reason the "'Bona Bubble' is so special is because within it, smiles are contagious. This, I believe, makes the spirit of Bona's ripple throughout the world; that its alumni never forget the great Franciscan simplicity found in sharing a smile," she said. "We are now responsible for the spirit rippling, to all places we imagine in the world we are inheriting."

1. Sister Margaret Carney, O.S.F., S.T.D. addresses the senior class during Commencement.

The Wolfpack

The Wolfpack has always been like an extra teammate for SBU athletes. For the last four years we've rocked the Reilly Center and spent warm afternoons sitting on the hill watching the baseball team bring in runs. Some of us even braved the cold chaotic weather to catch a soccer match.

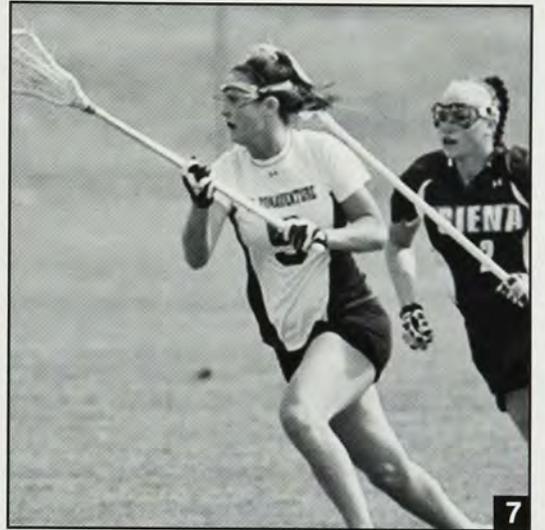

It's been an interesting four years. There have been ups and downs with every exciting win and every devastating loss. One thing has never changed though. We loved the Bonnies and pulled for them at every turn. Whether they won or lost, the Wolfpack was always there. And we always will be.

Beloved Dean Says Goodbye

The Bonaventure community was saddened to hear that Dean Lee Coppola planned to retire in 2011 after 15 years with the journalism program. Coppola began his tenure at Bonaventure in 1996 as the Jandoli School's first dean. Prior to returning to his alma mater, Coppola's journalistic career spanned more than 20 award-winning years in both broadcast and print. He also received his law degree from the State University of Buffalo in 1983 and acted as an assistant to the United States Attorney for five years.

Under Coppola, the Jandoli School experienced many positive changes, including the addition of a broadcast program, the Bob Koop TV Lab and an Integrated Marketing Communications graduate program.

Coppola's love for the Jandoli School, his respect for students and faculty and his passion for journalism will be truly missed.

Once a Bonnie, Always a Bonnie

For each of us, our time at Bonaventure brought something different. Some gained knowledge, some learned who they are, most found a combination of both. Many of us formed relationships and learned lessons that changed us forever. Bona's has helped shape who we are, and for that we should always be grateful.

Starting the next chapter can be just as scary as it is exciting. But we can all feel better knowing that no matter how chaotic life gets, we always have a home at St. Bonaventure University.
